DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-14 and 27-29, drawn to a method and a machine-readable medium storing instructions executable by a processor for determining a measure of quality of a laser beam, the instructions having operations comprising: providing a reference value from a theoretical Gaussian laser beam; determining, for a test laser beam, a measured value corresponding to the reference; and comparing the measured value with the reference value to obtain a beam quality of the test laser beam., classified in class 356, subclass 121.
- II. Claims 15-26, drawn to a method and system or measuring beam quality of a laser beam, comprising: a transform lens located at least one focal length in front of a laser to be measured; a sheet with an opening located approximately one focal length in back of the transform lens; a means for measuring the power of the laser beam through the opening; and a means for comparing the measured power with a theoretical value for a Gaussian beam to obtain the beam quality of the laser beam, classified in class 356, subclass 124.5.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions [I] and [II] are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct if they do not overlap in scope and are not obvious variants, and if it is shown that at least one subcombination is separately usable. In the instant case, subcombination [I and II] has separate utility such as [in a device without the other particulars of the other subcombination as identified above]. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and the inventions require a different field of search (see MPEP § 808.02), restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

A telephone call was made to Mr. Tom Chen on 2/7/06 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

Art Unit: 2877.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Sang Nguyen whose telephone number is (571) 272-2425. The examiner can normally be reached on 9:30 am to 7:00 pm.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, Gregory J. Toatley, Jr. can be reached on (571) 272-2800 ext. 77. The fax phone number for the organization where this application or proceeding is assigned is 571-273-8300.
